Local Lions Are Ready To Play Scottsburg Club

ALL GAME TO BE STAGED AT SCOTT COUNTY FAIR GROUNDS NEXT THURSDAY

With championships coming to Jeffersonville base ball teams from every direction, the local Lions club will attempt next Thursday to bring another crown to the River and Rail City.

On that day the local jungle will journey to Scottsburg and engage in the national pastime with their Cubs, the Scottsburg Den of Lions. The Scott county aggregation has been taking honors right and left. Honors for attendance, honors for putting over projects and a few weeks ago they received the highest honor in the state, the election of Lynn Craig, one of their members, as District Governor of the State of Indiana.

Now, however, under the leadership of Manager Wilmer Dickey, the local den has hit upon a scheme to over the sails of their Cubs, and the result is a base ball game to be played at the Scott county fair grounds on Thursday, July 26 at 2 p. m.

The Scottsburg Lionesses will entertain the ladies of the Jeffersonville club, as well as the Lions at a picnic after the game.

An example of loyalty to Lionism is shown in connection with this one, by Lion Charles Nachand. Charlie is the star short stop of the local club and had long ago planned a trip to Wyoming. He is, however, postponing the start of his vacation for two days so that he will be on hand to take part in the game at Thursday.

The local team will practice at the city field next Tuesday afternoon and all players are urged to report to manager Dickey at 3:30 p. m.

The lineup of the two teams for Thursday is as follows:

England And Five Colonies Accept Anti-War Treaty

BRITISH ANSWER TO REVISED DRAFT OF PACT SETS OUT BRITISH POSITION

Washington, July 20—Replies of the London government and of five other members of the British commonwealth, Canada, Australia, South Africa, New Zealand and India, accepting the revised American draft of the war renunciation treaty were made public last night in London and Ottawa.

The Canadian answer is the most striking of the group. It was transmitted from Ottawa bearing the signature of W. L. MacKenzie King, as secretary of state for external affairs, and states in fifty words that Canada "cordially accepts the treaty as revised and is prepared to participate in its signature."

England Explains Stand
 The British government's answer equally accepts the revised treaty but reiterates the British understanding of terms of the pact in so far as they might affect obligations to the League of Nations or under the treaty of Locarno and also with respect to the right of self-defense and automatic release from obligations to any signatory nation breaking the pact. In addition Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary reiterates his previous statement that Great Britain's acceptance of the new treaty rests "upon the understanding that it does not prejudice" her freedom of action in unspecified regions "of which the welfare and integrity constitute a special and vital interest for our peace and safety."

The Australian reply was transmitted through Chamberlain, as were those of the Union of South Africa, New Zealand, and India. In the case of South Africa, however, the British foreign secretary's communication quotes textually the reply received by him from Gen. Hertzog, South African minister for external affairs.

None of the replies from members of the British commonwealth other than the London government itself touches on the point made by the foreign secretary in relation to what has come to be known as the British Monroe doctrine stipulation. The replies of New Zealand and India briefly take cognizance, however, of the other stipulations reiterated in the London note, while those for Australia and South Africa outline for themselves the same understandings.

In the British foreign secretary's note it was recalled that in a previous communication he had pointed out that respect for league and Locarno obligations "was the foundation of the policy of the gov-
