Special To The Evening News
Terre Haute, Ind.—With a program filled with special activities of group meetings, business sessions and conferences, 1,000 business and professional women of Indiana today entered into the final day of the annual state convention of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs, which began here Saturday night.

Among group speakers at the Sunday luncheon was Harry Porter Marshall, Illinois publisher, who outlined to club members engaged in newspaper work, progress made in the newspaper field from the standpoint of the editorial and news departments.

Mr. Porter, who is a rural publisher, stated that these departments whether rural, small city or metropolitan, are comparatively the same.

Morton Hayman, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, addressed the luncheon meeting secretaries and book-keepers. Lena Madesin Phillips, national president, was the principal speaker when "Peonies Night" was observed Sunday. Miss Phillips cited the beginning of the organization ten years ago. She pointed out its growth to the present status of 52,000 members with more than 1,000 clubs. The organization, she said, is now reaching into an international field and this summer a second delegation of federation members is to go abroad to complete the organization begun in 1928.

Among the speakers at the public breakfast Monday morning was Miss Sylvia Ragon, City Editor of the Jeffersonville, Indiana, Evening News and Mrs. Bernice Harrison, state publicity chairman of Angola.

The election for state president promises much keen competition Monday afternoon. Mrs. Bonnie Robinson, of Hammond and Miss Gladys Riddle, of Connersville are to make the race for state president. Indianapolis and Sullivan are contenders for the 1930 convention.

Miss Ragon and Miss Velva Scott of Jeffersonville, are delegates re-

President Asks Congress View On Reparations

HOOVER CALLS LEGISLATIVE HEADS FOR CONFERENCE OVER REPORT EXPECTED FROM EXPERTS COMMITTEE

Washington—President Hoover late Sunday conferred with leaders of both houses of congress to obtain their views with regard to an expected report from the experts committee on reparations which has been meeting in Paris.

The meeting was attended by Secretary Stimson, who issued a statement tonight telling the purpose of the meeting.

The meeting at the White House this afternoon was called by the President," the secretary's statement said, "for the purpose of acquainting the leaders of the two houses of Congress and the appropriate committees thereof with the purpose of the experts committee on reparations which has been meeting in Paris.

May Report Soon

"That committee is now apparently approaching the end of its labors and it is possible that a report may soon be made which may require action by the executive.

The meeting was held at the of ascertaining the views of Congress upon matters which may be the subject of such a report in order that if the President is required to take action he may have the benefit of those views."

The meeting was held at the White House after Mr. Hoover returned from a week-end visit to his mountain retreat in Virginia.

At The Conference

In addition to Secretary Stimson, those who participated in the conference were Secretary Mellon, Senator Borah, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee; Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican floor leader, Senator Smoot of Utah, chairman of the Senate finance committee; Senator Simmons (Democrat) of North Carolina; Speaker Longworth of the House, Representative Tilson of Connecticut, House Republican floor leader; Representative Hawley of Oregon, chairman of the House ways and means committee; Representative Garner of Texas, House Democratic leader and ranking minority member of the ways and means committee; Assistant Secretary of State Castle and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills.

The conference was confined to the subject of reparations and did not include a discussion of the tariff measure pending before Congress, it was stated by the conferees.

May Compromise

The conference was viewed by some unofficial observers as suggesting the possibility that the reparations experts were expected to recommend concessions by the United States in its international financial arrangements. This, it was held, might be the route through which the experts hope to arrive at acceptance of a compromise upon the German reparations problem.

Representative Tilson declined to discuss the details of the conference, declaring that the statement issued by the secretary of state covered the business of the meeting and spoke for the conferees.

Other participants in the conference declined to divulge the exchange of views at the meeting.

LOUISVILLE BOARD OF TRADE PLANS BIG CELEBRATION AT OPENING OF THE NEW BRIDGE

To Invite People Of Surrounding States To Visit Falls Cities When New Span Is Opened To Traffic. Jeffersonville Will Take Part

National Poppy Day Is Saturday

LOCAL AUXILIARY TO TAKE PART IN WORK TO AID DISABLED WAR VETERANS BY SALE OF FLANDER'S FLOWER

Saturday, May 25, has been designated as Poppy Day throughout the United States and as usual, Rosa Rapp Unit, of The American Legion Auxiliary, of this city, is taking an active part.

Mrs. Dorothy Leatherman, chairman of the local Poppy Day committee stated today that plans are well under way and that if the weather is favorable this should be the biggest Poppy Day ever held in this city.

Mrs. Leatherman will announce her workers in a few days, together with the stations to which they will be assigned.

The proceeds from the sale of Poppies goes to help the disabled veterans of the World War and their dependents. Each year this day is looked forward to by veterans who are confined to hospitals, for with its coming come added comforts and a few little luxuries which mean so much to men who have for years been confined to hospitals, some with little hope of ever leaving until they start on their last long journey.

People can little realize the amount of suffering some of these men, many of whom have been confined since before the Armistice, have bravely withstood. They have given everything they possessed, health, happiness, home, and the company of their loved ones. It is little we can do to in some manner help to make them forget their condition and Poppy Day has been inaugurated with this in mind.

Buy and wear a Poppy next Saturday. It will show that you are not un mindful of the great sacrifices these men have made and that you have not forgotten.

Louisville, Ky.—A special celebration to mark completion of the $6,000,000 Louisville Municipal Bridge some time next fall, including a steam boat race, a regatta, stunts by amphibian planes and other events is being arranged by a special committee of the Board of Trade, William F. Morrow, secretary, said Monday.

The tentative programme has been prepared for submission to a general committee of the board for amplification or modification with the co-operation of other trade bodies, service clubs and the Louisville Bridge Commission.

As proposed by the Steering Committee, headed by Luther M. Stein, residents of Southern Indiana would be special guests of honor at the celebration, which would be widely advertised in Southern Indiana and perhaps in a portion of Southern Illinois. The proposed slogan of the campaign to advertise the celebration is "Only One Mile of River Between Louisville and Southern Indiana."

The committee expects to invite Gov. Harry G. Leslie of Indiana and members of his staff as special guests and to provide a special escort for a trip across the bridge.

Many Events

An air circus at Bowman Field, an organ recital at the Louisville Memorial Auditorium and a football game between the teams of University of Louisville and some Indiana university have been suggested as special events which might be worked into the celebration plans. A river steamer race, ending at the bridge and high diving from the top are included in plans for the river front part of the programme.

"The Board of Trade," said Mr. Stein, "is impressed with the desirability of making plans at once to advertise the greatly-improved access to Louisville and the South that the new municipal bridge will give to Southern Indiana and points north of the Ohio river.

Make Active Drive

"Six years ago the Board of Trade inaugurated the active campaign for the bridge which continued until a plan was found to finance it. At that time a special bridge committee of the board, composed of Senator Frederick M. Sackett, William Black and William Heyburn, employed engineers to survey the feasibility of the project and issued a printed report in which it held that the bridge would be a highly paying venture from the start and would bring benefits to Louisville business.

"William Black, a member of the original Board of Trade committee, became chairman of the Louisville Bridge Commission when that body was created, and Tom B. Duncan, now president of the board, later was appointed a member of it, serving with Chairman Black, George Eady and Fred Forcht, the other members of the commission. Mr. Duncan, incidentally served as chairman of one of the bond issue campaigns for the bridge. Very naturally the invaluable preliminary work of these men in stimulating interest in the bridge project was recognized by the city government when the Bridge Commission was organized."

H. A. Wenige, secretary of the Jeffersonville Chamber of Commerce stated Monday that Jeffersonville plans to take part in this celebration and he is making plans for a novel entertainment feature as part of the general event.

Marse Henry's Widow Dies In Louisville Sunday

Louisville, Ky.—Mrs. Rebecca Ewing Watterson, 86 years old, widow of Henry Watterson, one of the two founders of The Courier-Journal, died at the apartment of her daughter, Mrs. Bainbridge Richardson, at the Brown Hotel at 8 o'clock Sunday night, after a three months' illness from pneumonia.

Mrs. Watterson had returned two months ago from Florida, where she, became ill. It was thought for a time that she would not be able to complete the trip here, but following her return she improved and it was thought she was out of immediate danger. Saturday she became worse and Sunday morning she fell into a sleep from which she did not awaken.

Mrs. Watterson deserved a great deal of credit for her husband's career, a lifelong friend of the family declared Sunday night. "Mrs. Watterson looked over Mr. Watterson's life and health and was very devoted to him," the friend said. "She was a lovely character. A lovely relationship existed between Mrs. Watterson and her husband."

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at

City Police Nab Bakery Wagon Driver

Jeffersonville police on Monday morning arrested Earl Veach, driver for the Donaldson Baking Company, of Louisville, on a charge of peddling without a license.

Veach and the company claim they do not need a license as they take orders and then make deliveries, but the police state that Veach has been peddling, selling and making deliveries immediately and that it is necessary for him to pay $40 for a peddlers license.

Veach was arrested on the same
